

Seriously? You think she'd sit around and wait for days just to let her new beau know how she feels? Wrong. You must need more romance in your life. Think about where you went wrong. If you want something, go for it. Don't let anything or anyone stand in your way. If she waits a week it could be over. He could have totally found a new love. He and Winnie might be an item. This isn't supposed to be a sad story for Rosie. You know what you need to do. Go back and make better choices. :-)

H